

I was appalled to hear that Sinclair was going to pre-empt regular programming on his stations across the country to televise an anti-Kerry bipartisan smear program.

This has caused much chagrin to many of the citizens in this country that support Kerry and gives a very biased and untrue view to the undecided voters.

If he is allowed to televise this program, I think it is only right and fair to televise an equally critical report about Bush's many disastrous decisions made during his presidency, which gets LESS air time than ANYTHING Kerry says that may be twisted and "spun" into something negative!

Fahrenheit 9/11 comes to mind! That may be something the undecideds may be interested in seeing but yet did not want to pay for. It would be very difficult for the FCC to deny Michael Moore the right to televise his documentary on prime-time television after allowing Mr. Sinclair to televise this one-sided negative view of Kerry's heroic war record.
